TRACK EVENTS ONLY HOPE OF WOLVERINE ATHLETES

Chances of Michigan Team in Eastern Intercollegiate Depends on Runners

PRACTICE STARTS THIS WEEK

Ann Arbor, Mich., May 18.—Michigan's track team has begun the final two weeks of work preparatory to the Eastern Intercollegiate—the goal of the season's work. The recent meet with Syracuse offers a basis of comparison as to the showing the Wolverines will make.

If Michigan is to have a look-in against the pick of the eastern colleges, the winning points must be scored in the track events. With the exception of Horner, and a possible Lapham, Michigan's scores in the field events will be meager, and confined to occasional seconds and thirds. Horner should win the shot-put, and have a chance to score in the hammer throw, while Lapham looks good for a second or third in the broad jump. He has been doing close to 22 feet consistently, and that looks good for a place.

In view of the brilliant work by Captain Nelson of Yale in winning the pole vault in the Yale-Harvard games last Saturday, Michigan is forced to appear an outsider in that event in the intercollegiate. Freeman may go to 12 feet when pushed, but the way the eastern vaulters are going, 12 feet will not win even a fourth place. There is a little hope for Michigan in the high jump, and the hammer throw.

Chances Look Better
With field victories unlooked for, Michigan's chances to score heavily in the track events have improved as the result of the recent meet with Syracuse. Craig showed strongly in both dashes and the low hurdles, and while the marks he made in those events Saturday will not win against the field in the intercollegiate, he did merely well enough to win against Syracuse, not trying for any remarkable time performances. In the big meet, as at Syracuse, Craig will be used in the 100, 220 and 220 yards low hurdles, and Keene Fitzpatrick expects the Detroit lad to score in each of these events.

Horner will be used in the shot-put, of course, as well as probably the short dash and the low hurdles. Versatile as the Grand Rapids lad is, he will be crowded for individual honors by Craig, who is having easily the best season he has experienced since going into athletics. Horner's work in the shot-put was affected seriously Saturday by the strain which resulted from his participation in the earlier events—and it was this that allowed Walte to win the event, Horner taking second. It is feared that the same conditions will be present in the big meet at Philadelphia and that Horner will be unable to come up to his best mark in each event because of what has been taken from him by the dash, the broad jump and the hurdles.

Hodgen and Reck Strong.
The pleasant surprise of the Syracuse meet was the unexpected showing of Hodgen and Reck. Hodgen is the veteran hurdler who is trying to get back in shape after an absence from track athletics of three years, and until Saturday he had been unable to show his old time form and speed. Hammond had been beating him over the high hurdles with considerable regularity, and the hurdler was becoming a trifle discouraged. Against Syracuse, however, he ran a great race, and would have won the event, according to Trainer Fitzpatrick, had not the Syracuse runner been given a big ten yard handicap by beating the gun. Thereafter Hodgen had no chance to win, although he closed up considerable of the intervening margin, and finished second.

"Hodgen looks good again," said Keene Fitzpatrick today, "and if he shows as much improvement between now and the eastern intercollegiate as he has shown the last two weeks, he will be a big factor in helping Michigan to win a week from Saturday. He has been a trifle slow getting back into shape, but that is natural, considering his protracted inactivity. Now that he is nearly right again, I am expecting a great showing from him. With Hodgen in the high hurdles and Craig and Horner in the low, we shall be represented more satisfactorily in those events than at any time since Garrels left college."

Reck's showing was no less satisfactory and fully unexpected as Hodgen's. Less than six weeks ago, Reck had scarcely been heard of.

FORD HAS GOOD RECORD

Russell Ford, the star twirler on the New York American list, has been on the mound four times and has pitched two runless games. Russell now has pitched three complete and one incomplete games for the Hilltop forces, and his record shows his opponents to have made only 18 hits and seven runs in 25 2-3 innings. One of these tallies Ford was really not responsible for, as when he took Doyle's place in the box in the game May 3 only one man was out and the bases were full. Going still further into Ford's 1910 history, the new Highland sensation has fanned 27 men and has done such classical work that the batting average of his opponents for the year is only .150.

TO REMEDY TROUBLE IN CAMP OF THE PHILLIES

There is trouble in the camp of the Phillies, with earmarks of lax management, accompanied by a commendable effort to correct mistakes. The fact that the two best pitchers of the team should be sent home to get themselves into condition, indicates that Manager Dooin has not been as strict as he should have been in dealing with his fellow players. Otherwise they would not have dared break training rules. Sending the culprits home in disgrace shows that Dooin does not propose to be trifled with, and the lesson should be taken to heart by other members of the team who are inclined to follow the same road. Another pitcher is mentioned as having a leaning in that direction as pronounced as the two who have been punished, and a retired player who generally knows of what he speaks, gives it as his opinion that the Phillies will never amount to much as a team until the disturbing element has been eradicated. If Dooin really is the manager, this is the time for him to prove it. Being one of them, as it were, he naturally preferred treating the players liberally as regards club discipline. It seems to have been demonstrated that some of them at least are not worthy of liberal treatment, so he should try other methods. A ball player who will not try to keep himself in the best possible condition is not of much service to a team.

SOME SOUTHPAW PITCHERS HAVE COMPLETE CONTROL

It is a common expression in baseball that when a port side pitcher goes through a game with one or two bases on balls "he has good control for a left-hander." As a matter of fact, when it comes down to that there are some left-handers, and not by any means a striking scarcity of them, who have quite as good control day in and day out as most right-handers. There aren't any southpaws who have as good control as Mathewson, but Mathewson has exceptionally good control among right or left-handers. The two left-handed pitchers who have been in the box for the Highlanders this season have put the ball over the plate as well as any right-handers, those two being Vaughn and Frill. Vaughn has shown noticeably good control.

Another left-hander whose control is nearly always conspicuously good, for a right or left-hander, is Wilkie of the Giants. Control is his long suit. Plank of the Athletics is a left-hander who has control as a rule, and so has "Doc" White of the White Sox. Among the left-handers of the older days, "Lady" Baldwin was possessed of effective command of the ball. Wildness was not among his faults, while Matt Kilroy had fine control and Ed Morris knew how to and could put the ball where he wanted to.

IS NOT BADLY INJURED.

Pittsburg, May 19.—Captain Fred Clarke, of the Pittsburg team, has issued a statement as to the cause and extent of Hans Wagner's injuries, which he said was warranted by many rumors and false reports in the matrons. "In the last game with Brooklyn," said Clarke, "Wagner slid into third base and his shoulder came into contact with McEwen's foot. The top of the shoulder was bruised and the hurt is a painful one. A slight cold aggravated the soreness and stiffened the muscles. Wagner wanted to lay off, fearing he would do himself justice, but I prevailed upon him to remain at his post. Then he and Miller cooked up the exchange positions to make Wagner's work lighter."

AUTO RACER TO RECOVER

New York, May 19.—Jack Tower, the mechanic who was seriously injured at the Brighton Beach 24-hour automobile race early Saturday morning, will probably recover, according to an announcement from the hospital surgeons today. He suffered a fractured leg and internal injuries, but is doing finely.

C. & H. CRICKET LINE-UP.

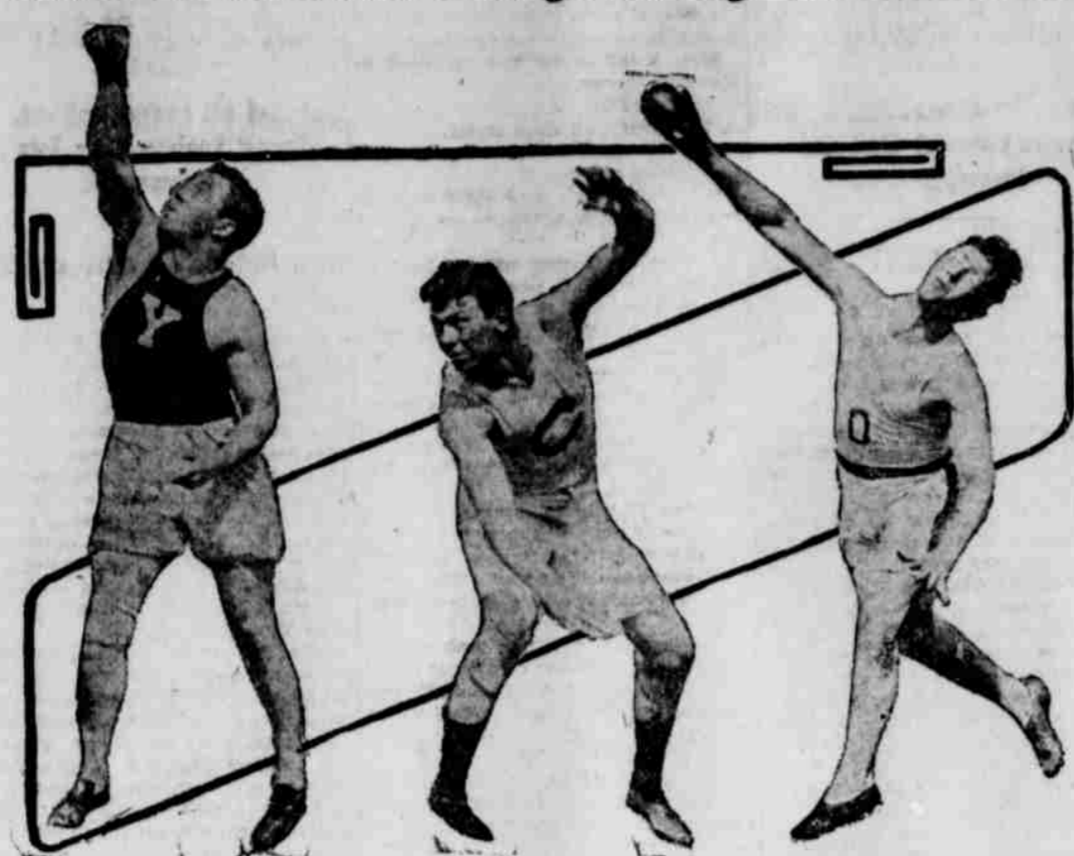

The following is the line-up of the C. & H. cricket team for the match to be played with the Kearsarge team on the Kearsarge pitch Saturday afternoon: Alfred Elliott, captain, W. T. Martin, C. Thomas, T. P. Polkinghorne, E. Elliott, P. Hosking, E. Frick, K. Osborne, J. Sleep, J. Ivey, and T. Ellis; reserves, T. Tregenna, T. Drew and R. Caddy; umpire, J. Berryman; scorer, W. Thomas.

GOTCH-ZBYSKO MATCH.

Chicago, Ill., May 19.—It was announced this afternoon that the Gotch-Zbyzsko wrestling match will positively be held here on Memorial day. If unable to gain a permit through the courts it is stated that the bout will be put on at the old Harlem race track which is outside the city limits.

Three Remarkable College Strong Men in Action

These three athletes are to be chiefly considered in the eastern intercollegiate events of the season when it comes to shotputting. Talbot is easily the star of the trio, and has no rival in the east. Indeed, Joe Horner of Michigan is about the only college man who has anything on him now. Talbot has been strongly in the limelight ever since he began doing athletic work at Mercersburg. Kilpatrick is Yale's best man. He is also a football star, being named as All-American end. Notice the different attitudes taken by these stars in performing the same feat.

BOYCOTT HURTING THE NAPS

Washington, May 19.—A boycott is cutting down to a slight extent the attendance upon the Washington-Cleveland series of ball games now being played here. About 200 men, it is said, members of the local labor union, were turned back near the gate Saturday by pickets who had been established there to intercept any union man who might be on their way to see the game. The grievance consists of the alleged fact that the owners of the Cleveland team employed non-union labor in the construction of their new park in that city.

Roger Bresnahan was badly spiked in Sunday's game between New York and St. Louis and was forced to quit the game.

The experience of the world has proved that business advertising is a form of business enterprise which is so fruitful, so important and so wide a field for the display of good judgment and ability that to refuse or fail to advertise is to challenge the results and meaning of commercial and industrial progress. The merchant who does not advertise virtually says that his judgment is better than that of 95 per cent of the strong and successful men in his field of activity. He attacks the common sense of the business world.
